

Accessibility Statement

At Kind Media Club, we believe creativity should be accessible to everyone. We are committed to ensuring that our website and digital experiences are inclusive and usable for all individuals, regardless of ability or technology.

What Web Accessibility Means

Web accessibility means providing equal access to information and functionality for people of all abilities, including those who rely on assistive technologies such as screen readers, voice recognition software, or keyboard navigation. Our goal is to create a welcoming online environment that allows every visitor to experience our content and services fully.

Accessibility Adjustments on Our Site

To support accessibility, our website follows the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) and strives to meet the most recent standards for compliance. This includes efforts such as maintaining proper color contrast, providing clear navigation, supporting text resizing, ensuring alt text for images, and designing our pages to be usable by keyboard or assistive technology.

Partial Compliance and Third-Party Content

While we make every effort to maintain accessibility across our site, certain third-party integrations—such as embedded videos, social media feeds, or external platforms—may not fully meet the WCAG standards. These elements are outside of our direct control but we are continually working with partners and providers to encourage improvements and enhance accessibility wherever possible.

Accessibility Arrangements in Our Organization

Accessibility is an ongoing priority at Kind Media Club. Our team is regularly reviewing, testing, and improving our site to ensure compliance and provide a positive experience for all users. We value feedback from our community and see accessibility as an evolving collaboration.
